Legislative tables. A selection of user-generated interactive tables is offered by the Office of the Queensland Parliamentary Counsel to provide information about the status of Acts, subordinate legislation and associated matters. For historical information (relating to pre-2016 legislation) not all data has been checked. The current tables are constantly updated and are printable and downloadable in various formats from this website. The following tables are currently available This page has links to a selection of tables providing current and cumulative information about NSW legislation. Users can automatically generate the tables for a selected point in time. The data from which the tables are generated is constantly updated in response to legislative events. (Tables containing static historical information are available on the Historical information page.) The Chronological Table of Local Legislation or the Chronological Table of Local Acts is a list of local Acts passed by the Parliament of Great Britain and the Parliament of the United Kingdom since 1797. It was produced by the Law Commission and the Scottish Law Commission who produced a report on it. A writer in the Law Librarian said that the Chronological Table of Local Legislation was a "monumental work". Chronological Table of Local Acts from Legislation.gov.uk.
