

The Works of J. M. Barrie / James Matthew Barrie / Hodder and Stoughton, 1913 / 1913

Photo: Barrie in his Adelphi flat, aged 73 in 1933. The book with the red spine is the sole surviving copy of "The Boy Castaways of Black Lake Island" J M Barrie and Peter Pan. "Who and what art thou?" A brief introduction to Barrie and his most famous creation - what Peter Llewelyn Davies called "that terrible masterpiece" - Peter Pan. Photo: Nina Boucicault as Peter in the first London production of Peter Pan in December 1904. J M Barrie gave the rights of Peter Pan to the Great Ormond Street Hospital for Children (GOSH) in 1929, and much of the work contained in this database has been sourced with the help of the hospital and with their permission. Should anyone wish to make use of Peter Pan material on this site for commercial purposes, they should contact GOSH direct via their website.
