The book includes legal and sociological perspectives of the very personal, yet also public, matter of married Jewish women covering their hair. Hide and Seek explains the law, considers the customs surrounding the practice, and includes the voices of women from around the world who are moved by the nature of this challenging observance. "There is a certain energy to the hair, and after you get married it can hurt you instead of benefiting you," said Ms. Hazan, now 49. She has published a booklet, "The Sheitel Advantage," which has since made her a sought-out authority on the subject.
