The 1990 amendments authorized a national operating permit program, covering thousands of large industrial and commercial sources.[25] It required large businesses to address pollutants released into the air, measure their quantity, and have a plan to control and minimize them as well as to periodically report. The Clean Air Act Amendments of 1977 required Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) of air quality for areas attaining the NAAQS and added requirements for non-attainment areas.[39]. The 1990 Clean Air Act added regulatory programs for control of acid deposition (acid rain) and stationary source operating permits. For example, a state air pollution agency holds a hearing on a permit application by a power or chemical plant or fines a company for violating air pollution limits. 101. This act may be cited as the "National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958".
