

Proceedings of the Royal Society of London, Volume 53, Taylor & Francis, 1893, Royal Society (Great Britain), 1893

Proceedings B. Our flagship biological research journal, dedicated to fast publication and worldwide dissemination of high-quality research. Editor-in-chief: Professor Spencer Barrett FRS Access status: Open access options available. The Royal Society journal of the history of science. Editor-in-chief: Professor Anna-Marie Roos Access status: Open access options available. Biographical Memoirs. Fellows of the Royal Society: Memoirs. Biographical Memoirs. A unique compilation of memoirs celebrating the lives and scientific achievements of Fellows of the Royal Society. Editor-in-chief: Professor Malcolm Longair CBE, FRS, FRSE. Information and resources. Volume 53 - 1934. Page/Article number: low to high Page/Article number: high to low Title Type Online publication date. Contents. The first definite olfactory rudiments, arising as two solid ingrowths of the deep layer of ectoderm on the under-side of the head, are to be seen in sections of Stage XXVII. A section through the left olfactory rudiment of Stage XXVIII (fig. 1) shows the early structure of the organ clearly, with its ingrowing thickening of the deep ectodermal layer covered by the thin superficial ectoderm. The cells in both layers are heavily laden with yolk particles, as illustrated in the text-figure by black dots. In the later stages, XXIX and XXX, the rudiment is similar; the cells near their outer ends Now Proceedings: Biological Sciences. | Read 1100 articles with impact on ResearchGate, the professional network for scientists. Royal Society (Great Britain) (Proc Roy Soc Lond B Biol Sci). Publisher: Royal Society, The. Journal description. Discontinued. Pairs of injection were made in area 18 by placing small volumes of two fluorescent tracers, fast blue and diamidino yellow, side-by-side in either a rostrocaudal or a mediolateral plane, with different distances between them. Goodreads helps you keep track of books you want to read. Start by marking "Proceedings Of The Royal Society Of London; Volume 51" as Want to Read: Want to Read saving... Want to Read. Magic shows take a different form in Janella Angeles' debut young adult novel, Where Dreams Descend, the first book in the planned Kingdom of C Read more 28 likes · 3 comments.