Here is a collection of 40 fine motor skills activities for young children that are easy to set up and promote a whole range of basic learning skills. My personal favourite tool for developing all fine motor skills is the humble ball of homemade play dough. It can be used in SO many ways by adding other combinations of materials to it, and automatically strengthens little hands as they roll, squeeze, twist and build with it. Here is a whole post about the benefits of playing with play dough and a handy guide to starting out with building your own play dough tool kit.

Strengthening skills (big muscles and hand strengthening) • Sensory and planning skills • Fine motor co-ordination skills • Pencil to Paper skills (pre-writing, drawing and writing development ideas) • Cutting skills. • Fingergym, is all about trying

We believe that ALL children have the right to experience a feeling of success and develop confidence to have a go at tricky things in a safe and supporting environment. The Positive Fingergym Trainer is an integral part of the philosophy behind the program, as current research* shows that not only is a child's self esteem affected by their performance skills, but children with lower skills are easily identified by their peers at an early age, contributing to their own perceptions of self-worth.
